Are you a GPN working in NCL? Are you in need of clinical, wellbeing or career conversations, or as safe space to discuss your work?

PNAs are independent, practicing nurses, trained to support you by facilitating restorative clinical supervision sessions.

The PNAs offer a confidential space to discuss a broad range of topics including traumatic events, clinical cases, quality improvement projects, as well as your overall wellbeing.

The sessions are flexible in terms of frequency and duration and can range from a 10-minute ad hoc call to a series of meetings. They also count towards CPD.

Join us for an informal chat, to find out about the PNAs offer.

Please see the attached flyer and register your interest using the button below.

GPN T&F Nurse Comp Focus Groups

Series of Dates in July

An exciting and collaborative project is underway across London to develop a General Practice Nurse (GPN) and Nursing Associate (NA) Competency Framework. Funded by the NHSE workplace team and designed in cooperation with nursing experts, higher education institutes, GPN leads, and key NHS stakeholders, this framework aims to define and assess the knowledge, skills, and abilities required for GPNs and NAs at different career levels. It will serve as a guideline for nurse education, recruitment, performance evaluation, and professional development.

Now, the project invites GPNs, NAs, clinical supervisors, universities, and employers to participate in testing the framework through focus groups. By providing your valuable feedback, you can help shape the framework to benefit nurses in general practice, ensuring it remains relevant and effective.

Participate in the focus groups and receive a £50.00 Amazon voucher as a token of appreciation for your involvement. Don't miss this opportunity to contribute to the advancement of general practice nursing!

Sign up now via the provided Eventbrite link.

Calling for participants - Circles Project

Monday 17th and Tuesday 18th July (10am-1pm)

London Venue - TBC

Arts charity Empathy Museum have teamed up with audio producer Abby Hollick and Health Psychologist Esther Murray to work with the NHS on a new project called Circles. Circles is a talking and listening experience designed for nurses in the NHS, across all departments and bands. Six participants are invited to sit in a circle and listen to short audio clips of nurses discussing how they're feeling right now.

Attendees will be invited to share how you're doing at the moment and offer reflections on the personal testimonies without judgement or interruption.
